This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

+ Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
+ Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
+ Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
+ Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. You can search through the full text of this book on the web at `http://books.google.com/`

STATEMENT

This is the second issue of Rus. The first volume was published in November, 1918. For that issue, 7061 persons or names were solicited for inclusion, and 2746 responded and were entered in the volume. For the present issue, 10,656 names have been solicited; about one-third have responded directly. A greater number has indirectly responded, however, and is included in this volume, for all persons entered in the former edition were informed that unless we heard from them to the contrary we should assume the entry to be correct and should reprint it as it stands; not having heard from them after two requests in the form of first-class mail we conclude that we have their assent, equivalent to a direct reply. In certain cases, however, we have felt obliged to omit an entry when learning from other sources that the party has removed to an address unknown to us; persons who have definitely left the country-life field are also omitted; others have passed away: nearly 200 entries of the first issue have thus been omitted from the present book.

The total names in this issue are 4,631, or above two-fifths the number that the Editorial Office desired should be returned. This proportion, in the second edition of the book, is not considered to be satisfactory; and as the subscriptions for the volume are not more than for the first issue we suppose that the constituency is not sufficiently interested in a who's-who of its field to warrant the continuance of the enterprise.

It has been a specially difficult time for the making of a new volume because of overcrowding in printing establishments, the practical inability of securing material of desired quality, and the very high prices everywhere. It has seemed best, however, to put out the second issue now, that the shifts due to the War may be recorded as well as to make a completer accounting of the field. The Editor is under special obligation to the many persons who have given so liberally of time and advice for the improvement of the book.

As to the scope of the book, we cannot do better than to quote from the preface to the first edition: "In general, it has been the desire to compile compact information about those persons who are now contributing through their achievements to the betterment and advancement of country life. In many cases the decision as to the entry of certain names has been somewhat arbitrary, inasmuch as the persons are only incidentally or secondarily connected with rural subjects. It has been the aim to include those persons who are regularly and prominently engaged in rural work as farmers, teachers, investigators, business men, ministers, lecturers, farm agents, authors, editors, rural organizers, administrators, if their efforts are of such a nature as to make them public characters. The volume is designed to be only a compilation of information, not of biographies or recognitions of merit. . . . . By the word 'farmer' is meant all those who till the soil for a livelihood, as general farmers, fruit-growers, floriculturists, stock-raisers, poultrymen, bee-keepers, and others.

"It has been the intention to include all officers in the college of agriculture, above the grade of Instructor, whose titles indicate that they are engaged in agricultural or rural work, whether these colleges are separate institutions or connected with universities. The grade of Instructor has been omitted because the incumbencies are usually only temporary and variable in character. . . . . In the United States Department of Agriculture and the experiment stations the entries are of those corresponding in rank, as closely as possible, to grades above Instructor in the colleges of agriculture; and for the Department the same theory of inclusion applies as for the Colleges."

All agricultural and home demonstration agents having charge of counties or larger units are eligible in this edition, but not assistants or temporary agents or county club leaders. Special effort has been made in this edition to get the entries of farmers who are known as leaders of men, but the result is yet far short of our expectations.

It will be seen that the book is not a directory of farmers. Nor is it a directory of entomologists, botanists, foresters, landscape architects, and other specialists except so far as these persons may be expending themselves directly in the interest of agriculture and country life. Persons are not admitted because of their excellence, as Rus exercises no censorship, but only because they are leaders or mentors in a rather broad sense, having at least a state-wide reputation or application.

In this issue will be found other reference information aside from the write-ups of persons, as lists of societies, departments, institutions, and of the agricultural press. It was the intention to insert certain compiled indexes to the entries, but this has seemed to be inadvisable under the circumstances.

Former subscribers should keep the copy of the first issue. They will want both volumes, showing the changes in the personnel of the field. Persons deceased and those not now associated with rural interests, will be found only in the preceding issue. A complete set will be prized as time goes on.

The consultant will recognize the title of the book in the Latin word rus, meaning "the country", whence we have the words rural, rustic, and their dependents. The book is not concerned with the poetic idea of rus in urbe, "the country in the city" nor yet with urbs in rure, "the city in the country", but rather with rus in rure, "the country in the country". It is part of the accumulating acknowledgement and inventory of the rural side of our civilization.
